
Subject: NSW Branch President's Report to NSW General Meeting
June 2020 to June 2021

Date of Meeting: 30 June 2021

The following report summarises the events and activities of AITPM NSW over the last 12 months reporting period from June 2020 to June 2021.

Key Branch Issues and Directions

The focus of the Committee over the past year has been on state- and nation-wide events for our members. We have continued delivering quality events for members, and have been offering free attendance for members to most events to provide better value.

With the continuation of the COVID-19 situation, the National AITPM Board made a number of decisions to manage the real, potential and perceived health, financial and reputational risks to the AITPM and our members. In view of this, the majority of technical events prepared by the Branch were delivered online.

AITPM Governance

Direction and support from the National Chief Executive Officer CEO and the Board of Directors have been very important for our Branch.

Last year's Annual Meeting was held online where we welcomed Professor John Nelson and Professor David Hensher as our guest speakers.

Membership

Our membership continues to be strong, however it has been affected by COVID-19 situation with a number of memberships lapsing due to non-payments or late payments of annual fees. Nevertheless, over the past year a significant number of membership applications were received and approved. Our YPN also continues to grow and is successful in attracting new members.

Young Professional Network

Our YPN continues to function strongly and to hold successful events that are continually well attended. They will continue to do so going forward.

Young Professional Awards 2021

The deadline for applications has been set in July to fit the schedule of the National Conference and the results will be announced soon.

2022 National Conference

NSW Branch will host the 2022 Conference at the Sydney Convention Centre. Adrian Barritt and Ganesh Vengadasalam are Co-Convenors. They have done excellent work to date, progressing the Conference preparation.
